

GHOSTS AMONG US

written by
Kristina Chotai

INT. A DULL DINGY BEDROOM - 1998 - NIGHT

The moonlight shines faintly throughout the room. The door is closed and it's dark. A GIRL lays wide awake. Her eyes are wide, in a state of shock. The sound of DRIPPING. We see blood pouring out of a wound on the right side of her waist.

Her long hair drapes over the pillow. Wind HOWLS outside her window.

INT. BEDROOM - 2026 - NIGHT

A white board beginning to come off the wall, a white desk with a notebook on it and a pencils. A DIFFERENT GIRL lays in her bed. A flashlight illuminates the book she reads. She FLIPS a page. She covers her mouth as she COUGHS. She picks up her plastic water bottle and takes a sip. She puts it down.

She COUGHS again as she reads. Blood SPLATTERS on the cover she's laying in. She puts her book down. She stumbles out of bed and staggers to the bathroom.

INT. BATHROOM - MOMENTS LATER

She TOUCHES her mouth. She looks ghastly.

She spits up blood at the sink, it's frothy and sticky. She TURNS ON THE SINK and puts her mouth under the head. She takes sip and spits out more blood. She looks at herself in the mirror and sees blood drool her face. Her teeth are bloody and her eyes are bloodshot, a dark red bloodshot. Shes convulsing now.

She tries to keep stable as she grips her hands on the sink. Her eyes are half lidded. She looses grip of the sink and falls down to the ground.

INT. DAYS LATER - BEDROOM - EVENING

She opens up her bedroom door. The lights are off and she's carrying a bag with a HOSPITAL LABEL on it. She drops the bag instantaneously and rushes to her bed. She sits down on it then slowly lays down. She has her hands on her stomach.

She looks at the clock as she continues to lay there.

She gets up to go to the bathroom.

INT. BATHROOM - MOMENTS LATER

She washes her face by the sink. A gust of wind can be heard outside.

The lights flick off and on. She stops for a second. Her skin prickles up as she becomes pale and her expression becomes wary.

She takes a towel and wipes the water off her face. She leaves the bathroom.

INT. BEDROOM - MOMENTS LATER

She lays in bed in her pajamas. The gusts of wind grow louder against the window.

The lights flick once more as she lays there.

GEORGINA:
Who's there!

She's now sitting up in her bed as she looks around her room. She has her eyes widen slowly. She quickly pulls her cover up to her neck.

GEORGINA:
Show yourself!

She's shivering and her are teeth chattering. She's paler than she looked in the bathroom, she's sickly.

She continues staying up in her bed. She hears the extremely loud sound of an object crash to the ground.

She looks around and realizes her whiteboard has fallen off the wall. She scurries off and goes downstairs.

INT. LIVING ROOM - CONTINUOUS

She believes she's safe now. She sits on her living room couch. She turns on the TV quickly to a program of a paranormal activity.

Her eyes are straight forward. Shes the only one awake. She picks up the remote. Changing to each channel its only static.

She turns it off quickly as she stays in the living room. Moonlight glimmers over her body as her face is in her hands.

INT. BEDROOM - CONTINUOUS

She lays in her bed again as she tries to sleep. There is a shadowy figure in the corner. She screams as blood splatters on the floor. She holds her right side of her waist in agony as the figure slowly approaches her.

CUT TO BLACK.